October schedule...

Dear Parent(s) / Guardian(s)

This month, students will continue exploring their short term projects, complete the first Lab project and start the second one. Independent projects plans are also due this month and the completed projects, consisting of a detailed plan/presentation/visual, will be due on December 7th. First in Math accounts have been distributed, as well as practice problems for Noetic Learning Math Contest which will take place on November 8th.

This month, testing session for KN and newly enrolled students will also take place and the results will be mailed in November/December.

Following the 2018 Student Essay Contest, Harmony Loves Art Contest is on. The goal is to showcase our student artists and their work at the District Office as well as gifting them to our community and elected officials. All details regarding the contest will be shared with the students during our classes.

If you were unavailable on October 4th for parent-teacher conference and would like to schedule one, do not hesitate to contact me.

Please do not forget to visit our website regularly. Aside from all the information about the projects we are and will be working on, you can also find the important dates and events that are taking place in Gifted and Talented Community.
